

'Re-imagining the City: A New Urban Order'

DAG National Conference 11–13 October, 2010 Cape Town Lodge

Imagine a city where all citizens have equal access to housing and land, employment, secure tenure, recreation, health, education, and opportunity to participate meaningfully in our democracy...

The Development Action Group, in collaboration with UN-HABITAT's Global Land Tool Network (GLTN), will host a three-day national conference entitled 'Re-imagining the City: A New Urban Order'. Forty international and local experts on urban land management, democratic urban governance, land value capture and community-centered and medium-density housing will come together to share experiences and lessons in realising the right to the city. Participants from Brazil, Thailand, Mexico, the Netherlands and Kenya as well as national, provincial and local government, and a cross-section of civil society will attend the conference.

Who should attend: government officials, policy makers, CBOs, NGOs and academics

Speakers confirmed:

UN-HABITAT, Housing Development Agency, South African Cities Network, Institute for Housing and Urban Development Studies, National Department of Human Settlements, University College of London, Lincoln Land Institute, City of Cape Town, Bento Rubiao (Brazil), PLANACT, BESG, Afesis-Corplan

The conference will explore five critical dimensions to 'Re-imagine the City':

- Theme 1: Land and property rights for a new urban order
- Theme 2: Citizenship and the democratic management of cities in a new urban order
- Theme 3: Instruments to finance a new urban order: land value capture
- Theme 4: Reconfiguring a new urban order through medium-density housing
- Theme 5: Community-centered housing in a new urban order

For regular updates on the conference, please join the DAG Discussion Forum at www.dag.org.za, where you are invited to participate in a series of topical debates.
